SCENES ABOUT THE HOTELS

Special From a Staff Correspondent.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 24.-All the big guns in Ohio republican politics, as well as many of lesser caliber, the bosses, state and local, and the faithful henchmen who bear the heat and burden of day are gathered in Columbus to attend the repubfican state convention, which assembles at o'clock this afternoon. The main object of the convention is to nominate a governor, lieutenant governor, treasurer, attorney general, judge of the supreme court, clerk of the same and a member of the board of public works. Another object is to indorse in convention the proposed reelection of James B. Foraker to the United States Senate by the legislature that is to Still another object, and by no means the least important, is the endeavor to promote barmony between the factions of the party in the state and to prepare to present a sold front to the formidable democracy in the autumn elections. There will also, it is hinted, be some quiet measuring of presidential timber, although this feature will not attract public attention.

Lieut. Gov. Caldwell's Case.

The most interesting feature of the situation today is the status of Lieutenant Governor Caldwell's candidacy for renomination. George B. Cox, the boss of Cincinnati, came to Columbus last night and demanded of Senator Hanna, Senator Foraker, Representative Dick and the other leaders that Mr. Caldwell should be carried upon the slate for renomination along with Governor Nash and those who have been selected for the honor of another term of office. Lieutenant Governor Caldwell, onetime representative in Congress, later may-or of Cincinnati, Ohio, and office holder of ng standing, has antagonized the Anti-alton League of Ohio, a very powerful organization, with large membership. It has been charged and is considered that Mr. Caldwell is the attorney for the liquor interests of Ohio. His attitude, it is said, has been open and above board, no con-cealment being made of his solicitude for cealment being made of his solicitude for and interest in his alleged clientele. The Anti-Saloon League made such a strong presentation to the republican leaders of the state that for awhile the dropping of Mr. Caldwell seemed likely.

George B. Cox of Cincinnati told the leaders that Hamilton county would be lost to the republicans if Caldwell was omitted from the slate, and especially if Gov. Nash was renominated.

Gov. Nash was renominated.

Gov. Nash made himself obnoxious to a

The Rest of the Ticket.

The remainder of the ticket contemplates the renomination of Isaac B. Cameron of Columbiana for treasurer, J. M. Sheets of Putnam for attorney general, W. G. Johnson of Summit for board of public works. W. D. Crew of McConnellsville is the leading candidate for supreme court judge Crutchfield seems to be in the lead for clerk of supreme court.

The indorsement of Senator Foraker for election will be insisted upon by his followers. The senator's friends will pre-vent, if possible, an attempt to launch his presidential boom at this time, on account of the factional feeling in the convention and the possibility of adverse sentiment being developed. At the same time a great deal of quiet work will be done at this gathering in the direction of preparing for Senator Hanna and Senator Foraker are working in harmony and cordiality. Their constant effort is to prevent their enthusi-astic followers from flashing up any factional contest which would indicate a erence of opinion or divergence of effort upon the part of the principals. They regard harmony as the first essential to republican success next fall. Any differences of the past that may have existed below the surface are forgotten. bridges of the future will be crossed as they are reached. For this time unanimity of effort is the watchword. Famous Names on Registers.

All the famous names in Ohio politics grace the hotel registers today, and familiar figures stalk the corridors. Gen. Grosvenor, after having run into a blind siding on the third term question, is puffing back on to the main track again, and comes up smiling and confident. Senator Hanna, Col. Dick, Mr. Herrick and Elmer Dover hold a continuous reception at the Chittenden. Senator Foraker, his Capt. Benson Foraker, and the Cincinnati politicians are at the Nell House. Between the two headquarters the newcomers throng to pay their respects and announce their presence on the field of action.

Representative Robt, Taylor, the brilliant young lawyer of the eighteenth district, is in with his candidate for state treasurer, Mr. Cameron; Col. Bob Nevin, representa-tive-elect, is here with his following; Gen Van Voorhis is a prominent factor in the situation; Representative Southard, from oledo district, is on hand; Shattue and Bromwell, the two representatives from Cincinnati, mingle with the boys, while Representatives Hildebrandt, Kyle, Warneck, Morgan, Beidler and Skiles are muci in evidence. The convention will be called to order at 4 o'clock in the Auditorium, and Chairman Durr of the state central committee will present the name of Senator oraker for temporary chairman. Senator Foraker will deliver an address which will sound the keynote of the platform. Indorsement of the national administra tion is to be a strong plank in the platform, ranking in importance with state is One of the issues in the next cam align, which involves election of the legis lature, and therefore affects the United States senatorship, is to be the upholding

He believes that the republicans will have a better chance to win this year than in many years than in many years. Senator Daniel saw the President in regard to an army appointment. Senator Daniel is favorable to the appointment of Captain McCall.

To Speak at Wesleyan.

Postmaster General Smith was with the President early this morning. Some time ago Mr. Smith accepted an invitation to make an address tomorrow at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn. Owing to the death of Adelbert Hay, Mr. Smith was in doubt whether he would go to Weslevan. but the President advised him to do so. Mr. Smith will leave Washington this afternoon at 4 o'clock and will return in time to attend the funeral of Mr. Hay. Has Received Secretary Hay's Note Regarding the Tariff Trouble-Will Confer With His Government.

The Russian ambassador has received Secretary Hay's note regarding the tariff troubles, and has taken steps to communicate it to the imperial government. As these indicate that the troublesome indemnity question may be settled by July 1 the ambassador is now at liberty to leave. He will stop for ten days at Paris, and then go on to St. Petersburg. At that time the American tariff question will be discussed, and the officials will have before them not only the formal actions taken, but also the full explanation of all incidental points and of general conditions prevailing in this country, which the ambassador will be able to submit. Count Cassini is quite confident that no ill-effect can come out of the inci-dent, and his efforts will be directed toward removing that and like small irrita tions. Among State Department officials it is felt to be a fortunate circumstance that Count Cassini will be in St. Petersburg when the subject is taken up, as he is one of the foreign representatives in Washington who has at all times manifested the most lively and sympathetic inerest in American affairs, and an earnest desire to shape all questions of policy so as to bring about common action between the two governments.

BRITISH SYMPATHY FOR MR. HAY. His Services at Pretoria Recalled by London Times.

LONDON, June 24.-The Times in an editorial recalls the time when the interests of British prisoners with the Boers were confided to Adelbert Hay (then American consul at Pretoria), and says he "discharged his delicate and difficult duty with kindness and zeal that is not likely to be forgotten by the British people. "Sorrow for his terrible and premature death and sympathy with his father, who has done so much to strengthen the friendly feeling between the United States and Great Britain, will be general and sincere among all classes of Englishmen, and particularly among those officers and men whose sufferings Adelbert Hay did so much to alleviate.

"Not much friendship has been shown or ustice done us during the war. We owe eadler recognition on that account to those who deserved well of us in our of trial, and among them Adelbert Hay held a high place."

The afternoon newspapers voice the sin-cere regret universally expressed here on he death of Adelbert S. Hay, the former United States consul at Pretoria, in New Haven Saturday. All the papers refer with emphasis to the debt Great Britain owed the late Mr. Hay for his many kindly of-

Young Hay was one of the vanguard of the academic class of Yale '98. He had come to his old college town as a member of his class triennial committee, and arrived early to assist his colleagues on the committee in preparing for the festivities of commencement week in general and for the class supper in particular. He took dinner with some of his classmates, and at 8 o'clock hurried to the Hyperion Theater, where he witnessed the evening per-formance. He spent a quiet hour in the hotel corridor and smoking room after the theater, and shortly after midnight re-tired to his room, remarking to the hotel clerk that he was sleepy and leaving a call for 9 o'clock this morning. He was not seen again until his body came whiring through the air to its destruction two and a half hours later. Meanwhile, however, ar- the form of a man falling through space. rangements are being made tentatively on instant later there was a sickening thud and the body lay directly in front of the main hotel entrance. The horrified laborer rushed to the spot and his shouts brought others. The usual crowd gathered. In it were several belated Yale graduates. They bent over the body. One Julian Mason, a son of the late Edward G. Mason of Chicago, and a classmate of young Hay, drew back and, horror-stricken, cried:

"My God, it's Del Hay!"
By this time the hotel clerk had reached the scene and made the identification complete.

The body was clad in pajamas. On the window sill of the room occupied by young Hay was found a partly consumed cigarette. On the floor, near the window, was a ring worn by the victim. His clothing had been neatly arranged and the bed clothes were drawn back. The bed, however, had not been occupied. mystery becomes intangible. The popular theory seems to have it that the young man, having prepared for bed, thought to indulge in a "good-night smoke;" that he chose the cool of the window, possibly dozed, lost his balance and fell from the window. The presence of the ring on the floor, however, gave rise to the fancy that possibly while toying with the ring, it dropped, and that in an effort to recover it, the fall resulted. However it happened, the known facts seem to make it conclusive that it was all a frightful accident.

Was in Good Spirits. Young Hay, it was remarked, was in particularly good spirits, and had planned with unusual enthusiasm to participate in many engagements this week. In the harbor lies a yacht, in which, with a party of his friends, he had promised to join in a trip on Wednesday to New London for the Yale-Harvard boat races on Thursday. This morning a messenger carried to yac... the news of the tragic end of the unfortunate young man. Sunrise of commencement week Sunday found the dead body in the rooms of an undertaker. An examination of the remains disclosed a discoloration on the right forelead, a contusion on the right arm and ar abrasion on the right leg. A plain ring, orn on the right hand, was bent and cut. No bones were broken, and there was no external fracture of the skull. In the sixty feet flight downward the body escaped striking a balcony one story below crashed upon the pavement with all the force of a momentum increased by the weight of a man of such large physique as Those members of the class of '98 who ice President Hadley, in addressing the $2,500. members of the graduating class, referred to the death of young Hay as follows: "The truths of the scriptural text and the value of high ideals of manhood are borne out by the untimely death of him whom we mourn today. His life was not long, but he under-stood Christian honor, and he helped those about him to maintain it. If he had lived longer he would have helped many more." In closing, Dr. Hadley again referred to Mr. Hay's death, as follows: "The deaths of several members of the present class and of him of whom we now think in mourning makes this day always impressive, the more solemn, the more sacred."

Later, to a representative of the Asso-clated Press, Dr. Hadley said: "I knew Mr. Hay well while he was in college. I valued him as a friend; I have been proud of his career.

Coal Operators in Lick Fork Region Expect More Trouble.

SHERIFF WITHDRAWS HIS POSSE

Refuses to Prevent Intercourse Between Strikers and Others.

THE JACKSON INJUNCTION

MATEWAN, W. Va., June 24.-Quiet prevailed today in the Lick Ford mine region, where 2,000 miners are on strike for the recognition of the union, and where serious riots occurred last week, leading to the issuance of an injunction by federal Judge Jackson forbidding the strikers from trespassing on the mine property. Several hundred strikers were at work today repairing damage to the Norfolk and Western roadbed caused by the storm. It is feared there will be an outbreak on Wednesday, however, when, it is reported, writs of ejectment will be served on strikers ccupying company houses. Perhaps the most sensational development s the announcement that Sheriff Hatfield and a posse, who reported for guard duty at the mines, have refused to serve and returned to Williamson. Deputy White said today: "We declined to take a hand in the controversy because the demand of the operators that all intercourse between the strikers and the non-union men be suspended was manifestly unjust. We agreed to preserve order, pre-vent interference of a violent nature and protect property, but beyond this we could not in fairness go."

Guards now on duty at the six collieries in the district have been selected from among the non-unionists. They number about one hundred and are heavily armed. Will Call for Militia.

It is believed the coal operators will now appeal for militia, but no such move has yet been made. At a secret meeting of strikers at Tracker it is understood Judge Jackson was vigorously denounced. Conservatives were in the majority, however, and no plan for evading the injunction, which had been posted by telegraph throughout the district, was mapped out by the 2,000 strikers.

While the injunction has actually been effective since Friday night, the defendants in equity were not formally served until today, when Deputy Marshal Huffard of Welch and Special Agent Felts of the Norfolk and Western Company walked in from Williamson, where they were compelled to leave the train by the cloudburst. Service of the summons was more with declaring of the summons was met with derisive shouts and imprecations, but no violence occurred. It is stated on good authority that warrants will be issued for all participants in recent riots by the Mingo county authorities. The men will be released on bond and future eruptions will then come under The civil service commission states that no applications have been received for the examination to be held on July 6 for the position of laboratory assistant in physics at the national bureau of standards, although public announcement was made of this examination about three weeks ago. There are two vacancies to be filled as a result of this examination, one paying $1,200 and the other $1,400 a year. This examination should not be confused with that held on Saturday for the position of secretary of the bureau of standards.
